Stay-at-Home Health Care

American Indians and Alaskan Natives (AI/AN) elders are living longer, but a long life could mean chronic illness and disability, which may make self-care difficult. Stay-at-home health care could provide older adults and people with disabilities the ability to live in their homes longer. These services ensure better quality of lives and maximum independence by allowing individuals to remain in their communities. Services should be provided in ways that meet their unique needs, culture and values.

Available services include:

- Advanced Supportive/Restorative Assistance
- Case Management
- Environmental Modifications
- Home Delivered Meals
- Hospice Care
- Institutional Transition Services
- Occupational Therapy
- Personal Care
- Prescription Drugs

What is Medically Fragile?

To be considered medically fragile, you must meet the following three qualifications:

1. You have a life-threatening condition.
2. You require frequent, specialized treatment.
3. You have a dependency on medical technology.

If you are unsure if you meet these qualifications, please call 888-287-2443.
