'Focus on Excellence' to base nursing home pay on performance

The Oklahoma Health Care Authority (OHCA) is moving toward the implementation of 'Focus on Excellence,' an incentive-based rate plan for nursing facilities as directed under the Oklahoma Medicaid Reform Act of 2006.

The initiative carries out a provision enacted by the Oklahoma Legislature last year as part of House Bill 2842, the Oklahoma Medicaid Reform Act of 2006. The act authorizes the OHCA to develop an incentive rate plan based on factors such as quality of life and care indicators, family, resident and employee satisfaction survey results, Department of Health survey results, CNA training and education requirements, patient acuity levels, direct care expenditures and other incentives. The program will be launched later this year.

The OHCA obtained input for the new program from a set of statewide organizations advocating for and serving the elderly, including an Interagency Task Force and both statewide associations of nursing facility operators. The agency will also use quarterly performance criteria to create a Web site that will feature a star rating system, similar to the state's day care rating system, which will enable consumers to compare nursing homes in their communities.

"Focus on Excellence is designed to drive measurable improvements in the quality of life, care and services for the 22,000 Oklahomans who need nursing home care and must rely on SoonerCare for financial support," said CEO Mike Fogarty. He added that the program will also provide the necessary real-time data that will enable nursing homes to set and meet performance improvement targets and know how well they compare with facilities statewide and nationwide, including the "best in class."
