Small Clinics Receive Extra Help From the Oklahoma Health Care Authority

OKLAHOMA CITY – Small clinics in Oklahoma that serve primarily black SoonerCare members will soon receive some extra help around the office from the Oklahoma Health Care Authority through a grant aimed at improving health care for minorities.

The OHCA was recently awarded a $200,000 quality improvement grant by the Center for Health Care Strategies to participate in the Reducing Disparities at the Practice Site initiative. Over the next three years, Health Management Program (HMP) staff known as practice facilitators will visit clinics with one to four providers who care for SoonerCare members, specifically black members with diabetes.

Since 2006, the Oklahoma Health Care Authority has collaborated with the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, the Center for Health Care Strategies and other state Medicaid agencies to develop and implement a comprehensive disease management program. In Oklahoma, the program is known as the SoonerCare Health Management Program. One facet of the program involves basing HMP staff at participating practices so they can help providers with quality improvement strategies. The CHCS grant will support this aspect of the program.

SoonerCare HMP staff members will help physicians identify plans to improve and enhance the quality of care given to SoonerCare members. Having a practice facilitator on hand will also give SoonerCare providers an additional skilled person who can look at their patients' data and help identify member-specific gaps in care. The practice facilitator will also help the office staff improve workflow and efficiency methods.

When CHCS requested states to respond to the problem of racial and ethnic disparities in health care, the OHCA was willing and ready to address the challenge.
